NEW ADVERTISEMENTS THIS DAY

Maps—Lloyd.
Steamer California.
Wanted Immediately.

The British Columbian.

FRIDAY, JUNE 4, 1899.

Our International Highway.

The Pacific Ocean is our international highway—the only one we possess at present. The voyage just completed by the steamship California is a living argument in support of what we were advocating on Wednesday—a line of British steamers between this Colony and San Francisco. We say a line of British steamers not for the purpose of raising an invidious comparison, or insinuating that American steamers are inferior, but because the American steamers in these waters somehow happen always to be under the control of parties who have interests inimical to our own, and who, instead of having an interest in serving us well, generally have an interest in serving us ill. Sailing from San Francisco on Monday, the 24th ult., at 11 o'clock a.m., the California reached here on the 3rd inst., at 8:30 o'clock a.m. Eight hundred miles in two hundred and thirty-seven hours and thirty minutes! Three and a quarter miles an hour! Twice as long to make the voyage between here and San Francisco as it takes to travel from Sacramento to Chicago! Forty-five dollars a head for the privilege of making such a voyage! This Colony is at present paying one thousand dollars a month for the conveyance of mails between San Francisco and here. Add to that another thousand which the Imperial Government is ready to grant, and with the exclusive patronage of our commercial people we could have a good British steamer on the route, carrying freight lower and carrying passengers for one half! We can hardly trust ourselves to picture the results of such a change. Assuredly they would be such as to render a second steamer necessary in less than two years. Why, then, are our Government and people satisfied to allow the present state of things to continue? Every consideration of self-interest and self-respect admonishes to immediate action. It is absurd to say that there would be no travel—that nobody wants to come here. The few who do come, in spite of defective accommodation, infrequent and irregular communication, and exorbitant fares, supply a sufficient reply to such assertions. Everybody knows that there are always thousands of persons in California who, having failed to obtain a foothold, are ready to move off; and it is reasonable to assume that a certain percentage of these would find their way here, did cheap and facile communication exist. With a line of good steamers running regularly, and an Emigration agency at San Francisco, through which correct information regarding this Colony could be circulated, there is no doubt that we would draw a fair share of population. We hope to see this subject taken up heartily by the people, and some practical result attained, for it is a shame, it is a crime, with such a magnificent country, to continue to live on at this poor, dying rate.

What shall we do with them?

Considerable space has been devoted in this journal to the subject of immigration, and we have endeavored to point out the importance of employing every legitimate means to attract population. We have dwelt upon the great advantages offered by this Colony in point of climate, resources, good markets and geographical position. But the question now presents itself—and it is an eminently practical one—what shall we do with immigrants when they do come? Amongst the army of officials who absorb the revenue of the Colony, is there one whose business it is to meet the intending settler, and supply that advice and information so necessary to a stranger? Not one. There is the Lands Department, with all its suite of offices; but what really practical information can be obtained there? Instead of finding in it a panorama, so to speak, of the Colony, with "field notes" and directions as to where and what land is open for preemption or purchase, there are a few miserable and inaccurate scraps, dignified with the name of maps, which one may be permitted to see or not, according to the humor of the sleek official. The applicant leaves the office as ignorant as he entered it, with this difference, that he goes away with the impression that he is not wanted in the Colony. In view of the palpable inutility of the Department for purposes of facilitating settlement, would it not be well for the people to organize a provisional bureau to supply this great want? Amongst the passengers who arrived yesterday were a number of likely looking men, desirous of settling upon land in this Colony. They soon learned that for many miles round Victoria the land was all in the hands of speculators, held at high prices. It is true they were informed that, back in the various interior districts, there is still some good land available, and that on the mainland, both on the Lower Fraser and east of the Cascade Range, there is abundance of it. But that information is without the impress of authority, and is deficient in those circumstantial details so necessary to enable a stranger to locate land, that it is not surprising that the answer should be, "Well, if we cannot get land in British Columbia we will go over to Washington Territory." Cannot the Government see that such a condition of things is disastrous to the best interests of the country? Cannot the people see the folly of expecting prosperity under such circumstances? Such indifference in regard to matters of the most vital importance is inconceivable. Immigrants are worth a thousand dollars a head to us. Our neighbors estimate them fifty per cent. higher. Yet they are treated as if they were worth less than nothing, and we act as if we were perfectly indifferent about the settling up of the public lands of the Colony.

Canadian Mail Summary.

Our Canadian files are to the 13th ult.

FENIAN PRISONERS.

In the House of Commons, in referring to petitions for the release of Fenian prisoners, Sir J. A. McDonald said the Ridgeway prisoners had been convicted not only of conspiracy as Fenians, but for murder, and were now in prison on that conviction. The case in a great degree was in the hands of the Imperial Government, which had commuted the death penalty into 20 years of penal servitude. Correspondence was now going on with the Colonial Office respecting the prisoners.

THE BUDGET.

The Hon. Mr. Rose, Minister of Finance, introduced the Budget, on the 7th, with a very able speech of four hours' duration, which was frequently applauded. It appears from the financial statement that there was a surplus from the previous financial year of $562,248. For the financial year just closing the expenditure was $13,744,650, showing an anticipated surplus of $2740 25. He went into an elaborate statement, showing that in a financial point of view, the Dominion was in a most flourishing condition. The Bank deposits had increased from $8,300,000, in 1898, to $31,600,000, in 1899. Savings Bank deposits had increased from $290,000 to $323,400. The Post Office Savings Bank deposits had increased from $20,000 to $676,000. Railway traffic had increased from $4,700 per mile to $5200. Bank capital had increased $28,385, in last year's assessed value of property, in 20 companies from which returns have been received, which was more by $2,480,000 than a year ago. The revenue for 1898-70 is estimated at $14,318,377, giving an anticipated surplus of $246,122.

QUICK PASSAGE.

The steamship Austrian arrived at Quebec, on the 9th May, having made the passage from Moville to Cape Race in 5 days and 20 hours, or allowing for the difference in time, 5 days and 234 hours. Her lowest day's run was 300 knots, her highest, 325. She brought 33 cabin and 335 steerage passengers.

DOCKYARD IMMIGRANTS.

The steamer Corinthian arrived, from Montreal, at Toronto, on the 10th May, with 394 immigrants from the Portsmouth dockyards, sent out at the sole expense of the Imperial Government. They are described as a fine looking lot of men, and were being distributed through the country by the Immigration Agents. On the 6th, a train of cars arrived at Toronto, with nine hundred immigrants on board.

He who drinks any but Fell's coffee is liable to drink trash. Beware of spurious imitations.

The Gold Premium.

The Sacramento Union offers the following explanation of the recent advance in gold—

In place of the gold which we have heretofore been paying for our foreign goods we have been using this year large amounts of foreign exchange drawn on sales of bonds at advancing rates; and even then, specie itself has been brought back to quicken the flow of bonds abroad. To stop this drainage on its coin, the Bank of England, on April 1st, advanced its rate of interest from three to four per cent; and since that time the rate has been further advanced a half and perhaps, by this time, a whole per cent. That some reaction should result from such an extreme measure is to be expected. On the 1st, gold was quoted at nearly down to 131. To-day it is above 141; but even this sudden advance of ten per cent. does not equal the advance of the value of gold money in England, as indicated by the increase of its loaning rate a full half. Indeed, the movement, on the whole, affects English interests more materially than ours. With us, the advance in the premium practically increases the customs, and hence the cost of foreign goods; but the effect is temporary and would not obtain if we had in use a demand note currency which the Government could keep in circulation and would stop hoarding the gold. At present the gold certificates answer a similar purpose; and we see that they have been drawn out to the extent of five to ten millions in the last two months. The only aid the Secretary of the Treasury can render is to sell his surplus gold as the premium rises, and to buy in with it the bonds, thus compensating for the falling off in foreign purchase of our securities.

A COMPANION OF WASHINGTON ALIVE.—There is at present residing at the Sailors' Snug Harbor, Staten Island, a veteran named Captain John Webster, who has reached the advanced age of 104 years, was born in Dublin, Ireland, in 1795, and came to this country in 1768. Soon after his arrival he was apprenticed in Georgetown to the firm of Noble & Crabtree, ship owners and chandlers. After serving his time he became captain of a vessel, and followed the sea, for seventy-five years. He was a schoolmate of both John and Chas. Wesley, and their friend for years; is a strict follower of Wesley still, speaks of him with the greatest affection. He also talks of President Washington, with whom he says he had frequent conversations. He also recalls the friendship of Daniel Webster with much satisfaction. The old gentleman is in excellent spirits, and does not seem to tire of conversation. He has his second sight, and can read writing, if finely written, as well as the papers, without the aid of spectacles.
